

HEROIC REMEDIES.

Hon. Francis G. Newlands said in his speech in Reno that war, with all the word implies, is preferable to gradual enslavement of the people, such as is now in progress. Believing that war would benefit, he was therefore in favor of it. This sentiment was applauded and seemed to accord with the popular idea. He also stated that a sharp and decisive battle in New York would bring eastern people to their senses, as they would then realize that there is not gold enough to blanket the world. When one nation took a pull at the blanket it left some other nations naked. The eastern banks and the railroads had formed an alliance to maintain the gold standard, and they were all powerful in many of the States. Hard times are educating the people, and all parties that believe in financial reform are disposed to unite and make common cause against the gold bugs. He feared there would not be war, and therefore advised the people to prepare for the ensuing election and by concert of action secure the reformation of silver.

Mr. Newlands believes that war would result in the immediate passage of a free coinage bill. That his belief is well-founded no intelligent person will deny. Gold would be scarce the moment the first gun was fired, as it did during the war of the rebellion and as it does in Africa. Mr. Newlands would be compelled to pass an Act opening the mine to silver, and the Congress of the White House would be forced to approve. The price of labor and commodities would advance and the country would again be prosperous. Death on the battle field fighting for country is preferable to starvation by the roadside.

The Type Trust.

The type foundries in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco have for years been engaged in the big type combine by which printers and publishers are compelled to pay very exorbitant prices for type. The only house that has remained out of the combine is the Pacific States type foundry, at 509 Washington street, San Francisco. Before the combine was formed the little type foundry was overlooked being considered too insignificant to bother with but Mr. Hawks, one of the proprietors invented self spacing type on the point system and the founder controls the patent. The type is so immeasurably superior to all other type made that their business has rapidly increased and the fair methods adopted by them in business has caused very cordial relations to be established by them with the newspaper fraternity. By dealing with them 50 per cent is saved on type. All printers should assist the house by every means in their power.

It has thus rapidly increased in business and is now giving the combine the biggest fight it ever had. Recently a large sum of money was sent to the Coast to help down the new house. The printers of the Coast should stand by the house in its fight but if it was wiped out an immediate raise of 50 per cent in type would follow.

The Political Pot Warming up.

Politics are beginning to be a subject of conversation. Considerable speculation is going on and already candidates for the prospective positions are looming up. A few months more and the pot that is now simply simmering will begin to boil and matters will grow interesting. It is to be hoped that whatever the year may bring around that business may be improved, office seekers may take chances.

West, the man who killed and cut up Ida Gilmore and pitched the meat into the Bay, has been acquitted. He swore that it was all done in another man's office. A letter was introduced in evidence written by the Gilmore girl to her sister in which she said she was being treated for her troubles by Dr. West. Of course the letter was ruled out as evidence. Under the modern rule of law anything that throws light on a case is ruled out.

The Gazette thinks that the Republican party of this State is going to make a great sweep here next fall. It looks as if some of its members will be doing their sweeping in the penitentiary by that time, and if things keep on as they are going there will have to be an annex built on to that institution to accommodate the State Convention of the G. O. P.

Ormsby County is once more on a scrip basis, but our Republican contemporaries are keeping very quiet about it.
